Great questions leaders should be asking employees

We often think of entrepreneurs as leading from the front, having a clear vision and just telling everybody what to do.

However, some of the best entrepreneurs are great listeners, and they have a talent for asking good questions. Somebody once said,

"If you want to get a good answer, then ask a great question."

Many entrepreneurs pay heed to this advice. Here are some great questions that leaders could and should be asking their employees, to make their business even better.

How can I help you?

What do you think?

What have you learnt today?

How can we better serve our customers?

IELTS Speaking Idioms about Business People

Come up with an idea = to create (an idea)

Leaders need to come up with great ideas

To build a company from the ground up = to create a company from the beginning and make it bigger

Mark built his online business from the ground up

Get / have experience under your belt = have a lot of experience (in my life)

You are fresh out of university, you should accept that job offer, just to get some experience under your belt

To see/look at the bigger picture = to understand the big strategy (not focus on the details)

To not be able to see the wood for the trees = to focus on the details (and miss the big picture)

Some employees can't see the wood for the trees, that's why the leader need to see the bigger picture

To go back to the drawing board = try, fail and then begin again (company, project, product)

Well, that product didn't sell well at all, we need to go back to thedrawing board
